MONDAY, OCT 20,

At the Church

Mt. S. Hughes
REV. MARY S. HUGHES of Kansas City, Mo., who preached at the Methodist Church here yesterday, is an incandescent bulb which is right in it.

He is a tall, thin man, in a severe military cut, with a face as straight as a rail, and a voice of homeliness, and preaching power.

The congregation greeted him with a warm welcome.

For Hughes has a wide fame. He is not yet old enough to have acquired a quakery.

In his sermon was analytic rather than emotional; but he has been before he got through.

His flock as his text Galatians vi. 22-23.

"But the fruit of the spirit is peace, love, kindness, faith, meekness, temperance." The first of his sermons, he said, "it himself, was a series of quotations from this catalogue. He said:

that we have, but do it, and do it in any way. Some folks try to do good with a catch word. Faith means "I believe." "Amen!" to the Lord's distinction, but being selfish, they might be better treated as hypocrites.
The word "Amen" doesn't here mean sincerity, but a shameless front. A hypocrite but completely honest. The question is, is the animal or shall the animal ride away.

Dr. J. H. Hughes said that the highest definition of God for man is contained in the text, "I will be a Father to the fatherless, and a merciful Father to the religion." The best definition, in an ethical sense, is "God in the soul of man." The phase goes further and tells us more completely that God is in the soul of every man of this life. Besides being definition, it is a test. Every church member who is subjected to definition can be no argument against it.
Col. Fitzgerald never dared to say anything against the gentleness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, temperance—and that of religion.

Veiled Eyes.

Rev. J. S. Thomson, pastor of the Independent Church of Christ, in addressing the audience, said:

"Everything has mysteries. We cannot see these mysteries, because we are mentally blind. For good and wise purposes God has put a veil over the of each person. The laws, forces, and facts of the universe, are realities we never see these realities. Life, love, hope, soul, spirit, are realities. We cannot see them. We can see their manifestations. The unseen world has made the world we see. All the works on earth are creations of the unseen mind through his hands. The mind which produces these works is invisible. We have all come out of the invisible world, and we shall all return into it.

the invisible world is real; but this world is a shadow, a temporary expression of the eternal world, and it will pass away. Things are not what they

From this dream-world we shall be awakened by the voice of God, merciful, and beautiful death; and we shall receive revelations of our mysteries. Some persons have glimpses of the unseen land. They see a spiritual moral, and loving God, when the veil was removed from their eyes for a short time. The eyes of Adam, Enoch, Moses, Elijah, Paul, and others, were unveiled. When the veil is taken away by death, our destiny is revealed.

the dying see faces, invisible to us. We do not know one another here. We are masked spirits."

This Beautiful World.
Rev. C. J. K. Jones preached yesterday morning in the Church of the City on "This Beautiful World." He said in part:
Religion has been made to consist largely of an inlooking upon ourselves. To rejoice heartily in this world and the glories thereof has been deemed to be gross materialism by the happiness in life, and to be content therewith has been accounted a semi-infidelity. To feel that the is very beautiful and wonderful hal, and that it is as God would it in all its variety and marvel-of phenomena. is regarded as abiting an utter disregard of all per consideration of one's salvation.

find that God has made all things good is to contradict the theologidogmas which insist upon the perfection of everything. Hence divorcement between the teach-of theology, and those glorious truths which are the basis of de all things of the earth and evens so full of meaning as the manipulation of the thought and will of the growing features of the liberal faith of our day that its advocates are also men and women of tastes for nature's scenes and facts, and for the study to which I invite.

All things of heaven and earth ask to the nature-lover in eloquent inspiring terms of Him whom he is the cause of their existence.
To nature, to be reverent worshippers her manifold shrines of the divine

... is not for us a sign of materialism, and much less a cause of hostility. On the contrary, this attiof mind leads us to hourly recognition of the presence of that Supreme Mind which is manifested in all things about us and whom we joyously worship.

It is right and beneficent that the peace and consciousness of the meaning of this beautiful world should be as a constant inspiration. Better mood of mind which leads to the prophetic of a nature prayer like that of Richard Jefferies than that dullness of soul which can find no cause for lift of heart in the presence of the will to believe' here and now we find God revealed in the daily sur-

...of our lives, for all that we live through our senses and the operations of our minds is but the organic manifestation of the Infinite and Eternal Mind."

 Sunday at the Central Baptist Church, corner of Flower and Nico-letta from Psalm 84:11: "The Lord will give grace and glory." The Lord tuary where he had tasted earth's

It was that the house of God was to be succeeded and far surpassed by the heavenly home for the saints. An excellent sign of an ardent love for the earthly life of God. God's best people will make them constantly long for the place of the church. Those who much to the sanctuary will go from strength, while those who neglect the place of worship

God's house declaring that one day there will be a thousand elsewhere. Grace and glory are indissolubly linked together. Many would reject God's grace and yet desire to enter glory, but the rule of the kingdom is in grace, not in glory. It is in His house chiefly that God bestows saving grace. In the sanctuary God's backsliding people often find restoring grace, and it is there that we obtain working grace, giving strength and courage for all life's duties and temptations, and comforting and sustaining grace for all life's sorrows. All who have been made partakers of God's grace will by and by be translated to His glory, and all that we have ever conceived of pleasures and ecstasy falls utterly to rest forth the glory which God has in store for his people. Grace now and glory hereafter. Surely God's people make the best of both worlds.

Believe in Thy Destiny.

At Christ Episcopal Church yesterday morning, Rev. Dr. George Thomas Dowling, the rector, in preaching on "What to Do With the Trials We Cannot Prevent," said:

"Now begin henceforth by determining to say 'No' to the wicked habit of introspection and distrust. Hold up your head. You are the son of a King. Then act like one. Believe in your destiny and your leader. The Lord may be leading you round, but He is leading you right. He has fulfilled His promise to you. He will lead you up to this Sunday and He will be faithful to you to the end. See that you are faithful to Him.

"A despondency such as you have been cultivating is false to fact; it is false to faith, and my friend, it is false to your future. To do your appointed work well you need the atmosphere of hope. True, this is not to be gained except by understanding the difficulties. You know there is a cheap kind of comfort sometimes administered by underestimating the difficulty. You only make by some species of logic, of word magic, to append to your misfortune a possible, if you only get rid of them and the man will go on his way rejoicing. But when you have all gone, the man who said, 'That man does not understand my case.' Men are not cheered when the difficulties of the future are simply removed. And I have no dispute with you concerning the giants in the land of your pilgrimage. But I will tell you where the mistake has been. You have not undervalued the difficulties, but you have undervalued the power of God. You have not undervalued the power of God who has promised to see you through. You have left out of your calculations the divine almightiness. Learn to spell disappointment with an H. Then it will become 'His appointment.'

der with the girl who had come to him from across the sea. When the happy love-light in the blue-gray eyes, all these things were not so? Then a frugal supper, smoking hot, was placed on the table. The teapot would be of brown and yellow stone, like the one at the farm. But the woman who writes the letter, the narrow stairs leading to the tenement room. She had been disillusioned so often.

One morning in early spring she caught her breath as the train slowed up before the window. No face peered between the ruffled curtains. A friendly hand had bowed the shutters to the daylight. That afternoon she hurried to shop where all sorts of dainty baby garments are sold. When she had selected a piece of flannel, she looked at the clock. The time was 11:30. She had to be home by 12:30. She hurried to the wrapper. It seemed almost like a desecration. As she carried her package to the waiting hansom she said to herself:

"It is perfectly absurd, considering their station in life, but how her eyes will shine!"

She could not send her gift, for she knew neither name nor exact address, but she waited and watched. The next morning the shutters were thrown back, and in a high-backed rocking chair, close to the window, sat the little English wife, her blue-gray eyes shining proudly above a long roll of white flannel, topped by a very small and very red velvet hat.

The woman who writes did a remarkable thing. She took deliberate, careful steps and passed the time of which resulted in ignominious defeat for the respective unions which started them, were founded on some definite grievance, and were given work and wages. At least it could be said for the unions that they had some reasonable ground for their demands, though the second reason was, perhaps, a better one. These trades, sympathy was sought in the case of the cooks and waiters by the reiteration of the plea that no man or woman should be asked to work seven days in the week, though the selfishness of this plea lay in the fact that the union managers supposed the fact that both cooks and waiters were given afterwards off which practically amounted in the course of a week to a full day of leisure, and that, if they were given more than that, it would make them among the best-paid workers of their class.

The strike of the teamsters, which is now doing so much to damage the trade of San Francisco, has not even the excuse of a just demand for shorter hours or better wages.

These April the teamsters struck for these privileges, and the Draymen's Association, promptly recognizing the right of the union, agreed to their proposal. Now the Brotherhood of Teamsters suddenly precipitated a strike, and the result was a disaster to San Francisco's trade, solely on the ground that union teamsters cannot handle goods that a non-union transportation company has agreed to deliver. The Morton Special Delivery Company, which is now doing so much to damage the trade of San Francisco, has not even the excuse of a just demand for shorter hours or better wages.

THE STRIKE OF TEAMSTERS.

Trade is Tied Up and Fruit Men Injured.

No Question of Wages or of Hours.

The Issue Is Whether a Man May Hire Whom He Wishes.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—The teamsters' strike, which began on Monday all this week, presents the clearest-cut issue between employers of labor and the labor unions that has yet been furnished in any American city.

The cooks' and waiters' strike and the retail butchers' strike, both of which resulted in ignominious defeat for the respective unions which started them, were founded on some definite grievance, and were given work and wages. At least it could be said for the unions that they had some reasonable ground for their demands, though the second reason was, perhaps, a better one. These trades, sympathy was sought in the case of the cooks and waiters by the reiteration of the plea that no man or woman should be asked to work seven days in the week, though the selfishness of this plea lay in the fact that the union managers supposed the fact that both cooks and waiters were given afterwards off which practically amounted in the course of a week to a full day of leisure, and that, if they were given more than that, it would make them among the best-paid workers of their class.

opportunities and by telephoning received a police patrol wagon in which the men were taken to a restaurant at some distance where they ate their supper and were then taken in the wagon to their stable. Although the strikers claim that they are using no violence, it is plain to anyone who watches their tactics that they intend to make many of the men from the country who are hired to drive teams, and it is also plain that many of the fellows who promptly get off their wagons and fraternize with the strikers, are hirelings of the union, put up to seek places and then desert in order to swell the prestige of the strikers.

There was much rioting today around the McNab & Smith stables at Eighth and Broadway streets. When non-union teamsters arrived this morning they were set upon by strikers and beaten. One was ducked in a water-tight tub. No police were in attendance. Other assaults were reported in the "Tar Flat" district, where large crowds of strikers gather, but no one was seriously hurt.

The issue between the strikers and the Employers' Association was put very clearly yesterday when the Employers' Association refused to confer with the Brotherhood of Teamsters, although Mayor Phelan had been induced to make the proffer. The employers put the whole thing in a nutshell when they issued the ultimatum that they would hold no meeting with the striking teamsters or other labor organizations, but that they would be glad to recognize any union, or attempt to force employers to engage only union men, or to force or intimidate non-union men to join labor organizations, or to interfere with business of the employers in any way. These terms accepted, the employers stand ready to arbitrate any question of wages or hours of employment.

And this position was made even stronger by M. E. Mitchell, counsel for the Employers' Association, who declared the position of the association. He said: "The only terms the association can consider are that the men who return to work must agree not to again strike or enter into any boycott; they must agree not to attempt to compel their employers to employ only union men; they must agree not to interfere with the business of their employers in any way. Upon these terms the association will arbitrate any question of wages or hours of employment."

NAVY WOMAN LANDS GIGANTIC SEA BASS.

MRS. A. W. BARRETT WINS CHAMPIONSHIP AT CATALINA.

Fought Four-hundred-pound Monster of the Deep Over Three Hours With Rod and Reel—Old Fisherman Probably Drowned.

AVAILON, July 28.—(From The Times Resident Correspondent.) There has been no more marvelous thing transpiring at Catalina than the capture of a 400-pound sea bass by Mrs. A. W. Barrett, a woman who has been fishing for some time.

Even those who are here and are witnesses of the events sometimes are compelled to ask their friends if what they see is true or whether their imagination has run riot and got the best of them.

This morning was induced by seeing Mrs. A. W. Barrett stand up beside a 400-pound black sea bass which she had just landed. She held a photograph taken of her catch. The fish is seven feet in length and is five feet eight inches in circumference, and she used a sixteen-ounce rod and twenty-pound line, which seems scarcely more than equal to the taking of a pickerel.

Mrs. Barrett is a proficient angler, and has fished here several seasons. She has been quite expert at handling the rod in catching fish, and she was ambitious for something larger, and has several times gone out to try for black sea bass, but without success.

Yesterday, when she and Mrs. E. N. Dickerson went out with Mr. Gardner. They had a long wait, but she tried her patience, but at length a strike was had on Mrs. Barrett's line. She discovered early in the game that the fish was a large one, and she launched with perfect ease, and when she lifted on the line it seemed like pulling on a submarine rock. She fought the fish three hours and five minutes before she succeeded in bringing it to shore. For one moment was there a question of hostilities. It was a fight for life, and it was a question for some time to which side the honors of victory would be given.

Mrs. Barrett was aching in every muscle, and she appealed to Mrs. Dickerson to pray for her. As the fight seemed to thicken she lost confidence in the praying and tried to get just to take the rod, but he would not, nor would Mrs. Dickerson, and she kept up the fight until at last she was rewarded with the largest fish ever taken in the history of the world by man or mermaid without assistance on rod and reel.

Mrs. Barrett's fish is fourteen pounds lighter than that taken by Col. Stockman and Mr. Shirley, which weighed 430 pounds, but Mrs. Barrett is able to claim the record from the fact of having landed her fish unassisted, whereas there were two anglers concerned in theirs.

Gen. Barrett, president of the Tuna Club, is having the mammoth fish mounted and will present it to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, where it will stand as a monument to the prowess of Mrs. Barrett.

OLD MAN PROBABLY LOST.

Carl, Cornell of the Maseo, while returning about dusk, when off Long Point, saw a small sailboat near his pathway, which was blowing in the wind. He ran close up and hailed it, but no response came and he boarded it to investigate. The mainmast was set and tilted, while the jib was down. A boat hook was out, and two other lines, fouled, lay on the deck. In the boat were two men, a black fisherman, a pair of gum boots, several loaves of bread and a demijohn of beer.

Cornell towed the boat into Avalon, and it was identified here as belonging to Jose Ancelmo Silvera, an old fisherman of Wilmington, and indications indicate that the old man was out fishing and by a bunch of the boat was pulled down the lb. fell overboard. The line out shows that he was fishing, but what befel him can only be conjectured. He was a man past sixty years of age.

DOGS AND MEN FIGHT.

A dog fight caused quite a rumpus on the street here last evening. A big mastiff and a spaniel, owned by business men at Los Angeles got into a scrap, when the owner of the smaller dog grabbed an oar and struck the larger dog on the head, and another blow on the big dog's own planted a solar-plexus blow on the oar holder which sent him to the ground. The big boatman, jumped in and parted the contestants and peace was restored.

THE MONEY OF THE MASSES.

There is a great outcry going up all the time from the shillies, thriftless, forlorn portion of the human race about an alleged impossibility "to get along." The savings banks deposits are the best index of the condition of the masses. The money in such banks is largely "poor men's money."

They were arrested by a deputy constable and charged with trespassing.

Lost Their Horses.

While the "Under Two Flags" company, which completed an engagement at the Los Angeles Theater Saturday night, was loading its effects, scenery, etc., on a train at Santa Anita, two little thoroughbred horses used in the play broke their halter straps and ran away. The police were called to assist in the search for the missing animals. They were not found until after daylight.

Flourished a Knife.

J. Gonales was booked at the City Jail early last evening on a charge of disturbing the peace, and opposite his name appears the words "No bail." The prisoner is alleged to have several times beaten a woman with whom he used to live, and then threatened her life, at the same time flourishing a knife. The disturbance occurred at the home of the woman's mother on New High street. Gonales had been drinking.

Epworth Leagues Depart.

An excursion party of 156 members of the Epworth League from New Jersey left last night in their special cars for the North, after nearly a week's stay in this city. Many of them were unable to find accommodations in the hotels here, owing to the rush of Epworth League travel, and they had to sleep in their special cars. The party will go direct to Portland and the cities around Puget Sound. They will then take the Northern Pacific for the East, and will visit the Yellowstone National Park on route.

Involuntary Bath.

Miss Dora Rhoades, whose home is on Workman street, near Downey avenue, attempted to walk out in her special boat which her escort had landed on the side of the Eastlake Park Lake across from the beach yesterday afternoon, but instead of stepping on the center of the boat, she stepped on the side of the boat. The boat turned over with her, and she pitched headlong into the water, which was about two feet deep there. She was rescued without difficulty and frightened than hurt. Her clothing was ruined, however, as she had to wade ashore through the deep mud.

Buried by Accia Chapter.

Mrs. Christina M. Johnson died at the Christian Hospital Friday, at the age of 50 years. Her death was caused by heart failure after a surgical operation. Smith, were left to mourn her death. She was an active member of the Accia Chapter of Eastern Star and one of the foremost workers in the order of Maccabees. Her funeral was held at the Christian Hospital, and was attended by a large number of friends who went with her loved ones to her last resting place yesterday. The rites were performed by Accia Chapter, D.E.S.

Death of Mr. Robert Mitchell.

News was received here yesterday of the death at Phoenix, Ariz., of Mr. Robert Mitchell, who had many friends in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell came to Los Angeles from New York City for the benefit of Mrs. Mitchell's health, and resided here three years, living near Westlake Park. Last year they returned East and subsequently went to Paris, where they remained during the Exposition. Mrs. Mitchell was suffering from tubercular laryngitis, for which she consulted the most eminent specialists of France, but obtained no relief. Upon her return to the States in January she went to Phoenix, where she gradually grew worse until the end came. Her husband and three-year-old son survive her.

JOY AND THANKSGIVING OF UNITED BRETHRENS.

REMARKABLE SERVICE IN A LOS ANGELES CHURCH YESTERDAY.

Day Given to Jubilation Over Winning Fifteen Hundred Dollars in The Times Subscription Contest—Mrs. Keppel Led to Victory.

Yesterday morning a fervent praise service was held in the United Brethren Church, corner of Pico and Hope streets, in thanksgiving for the $1500 won by Mrs. Mae Keppel, assisted by the ladies of the congregation, in The Times prize subscription contest, and turned over to the church, in whose behalf the struggle for the big prize was undertaken.

The whole purpose of the morning service was gratitude to The Times-Mirror Company, who opened to the congregation this door of opportunity. The cordiality of the little band's appreciation was touching.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted during the meeting:

"The Times-Mirror Company, Los Angeles—Gentlemen: Whereas, The Times-Mirror Company, in a legitimate effort to increase the circulation of The Times, offered a series of prizes, and

Whereas, this congregation, through its representative, Mrs. Mae Keppel, won two prizes, aggregating $1500 in value; therefore,

"We desire formally to express our thanks and the deep gratitude we feel for the opportunity thus afforded us to relieve ourselves of the burden of debt on our church property, that would otherwise have long remained a menace to our prosperity.

"We wish also to express our appreciation of the prompt and impartial manner in which the contest was conducted and the prizes awarded.

"We hope for your valuable publication an ever-increasing circulation, and that The Times may long continue to be the leading newspaper in Southern California.

The pastor, Rev. J. L. Parks, took his text from Psalm 124: "Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise; be thankful unto Him, and bless his name." He began by saying that the contest before the congregation on this occasion he felt like the colored boy, who, coming suddenly upon a barrel of molasses, exclaimed: "Oh, a thousand tongues to do this thing justice."

He then said, in part: "We are all deeply grateful at this hour. Such an occasion occurs but once in the lifetime of a church—sometimes never. The pastor seldom mentions a daily newspaper in his sermons, but today we are all glad openly to acknowledge our indebtedness to the Times-Mirror Company, who have sent $1500 East to wipe out our debt there, have paid $450 on late taxes, bearing no interest, and have saved the rest to meet the expenses of the church. But a little while ago we were paying a heavy interest, struggling to keep up before this thing of laying on growth. Now all of it is gone. We should indeed praise God."

The minister continued with a sermon upon the meaning of the church in the community; that irrespective of religious sect, it strives to lead men to a better life, it elevates them, and teaches the young lives moral lessons, so whatever person or organization extends aid to a distressed flock, he is to uplift the community and the country. The speaker dwelt upon the fact that the church—especially a struggling church—had many enemies, and that poor congregations were often discouraged at their obstacles rather than to give praise for the opportunities that are offered by the mere privilege of existence. To illustrate the point of contentment, he told the amusing story of the small boy who had been naughty, and whose father punished him by making him sit at a small table during meals. At the opening of the first meal the father gave thanks as usual, and the young fellow decided that he should also arise from his table, and in the silence that followed the family blessing he raised up his voice and prayed: "Oh, Lord I thank thee, thou prepared a table before me in the presence of mine enemies." Thus should the small church always meet opposition with thanksgiving.

A choir of eight rendered selections during the service. Afterward a meeting was thrown open, and individual members expressed their gratitude. Formal resolutions of thanks were extended to the prominent workers of the church during the struggle, and to S. K. Henderson of The Times' business staff, manager of the contest. Mr. Henderson replied.

Some of the remarks made by the members of the congregation when the meeting was thrown open were:

"I've taken The Times for twenty years, and now I see the Lord also knows when there's good paper in the country."

"If God can use The Times, then it must be a pretty good paper."

"The Times people are honest and gentlemen."

CHUTES PARK.

Chutes Park entertained a lively crowd yesterday afternoon and evening. The cool shade and excellent music attracted many who enjoy outdoor amusement. The vaudeville programme included Bentley, a clever musician, who has several novelties in the musical line, and a group of five clog and jig dancers, with their celebrated electric spark dance. Prof. Rabe, with his trained animals and his den of serpents; Harmon, the high diver, introducing entertaining features on the trapeze; the Cabaret de la Mort, the non-tracks, etc. Tonight the clog trio, clog swingers and jugglers, will introduce their clever turn, and the "Comedy in Juggling." Thursday will be ladies' day and Saturday children's day.

EVENTS IN SOCIETY.

The Butler's New Wrinkle.

A popular young society matron of West Twenty-eighth street gave an informal dinner one evening last week. The establishment does not sport an English butler, but makes shift with an ordinary, almond-eyed heathen, who has tricks peculiar, and evidently a literary tendency. Upon this occasion Wing Koo astonished not only the assembled guests but his host and hostess, as well. He appeared at the drawing-room door at the moment when the company with the grave announcement: "Dinner is served, madam," and pointing with a flourish of his voluminously-sleeved arm toward the dining-room, proposed a law in recouping tones with serious countenance, "De woe—de woe."

His meaning was plain, if the words obscure, and which his hostess led the convulsed friends to the table. While partaking of the soup the host, who, by the way, was a popular young attorney, said to his wife: "What the devil is this new wrinkle of Wing's? This 'de woe' business?"

"I've given up accounting for Wing," replied his wife. "Perhaps it's a new wrinkle for something," ventured the young lady with the sprightly air and aquiline nose. "Why don't you ask him?" suggested Peckham.

"Look here, Wing," said the host, as the heathen appeared with the roast, "what you mean just now when you called us to dinner? What for you say 'de woe'?"

With Chinese coyness, Wing trifled with his salver—looked up—looked down—grinned bashfully.

"Come Wing," "Obedient the hostess encouraged, "you tell us why you say 'de woe'?"

"Oh, you sabe—I learn 'in at mission school," Wing began to say. "Oh, get out, Wing; de woe means nothing of the sort. That pretty mission teacher is making better use of you, Wing," jollied the host.

"I get 'in book," proposed Wing with alacrity. "Eh—de say to eat—to dine—to dewow."

"It certainly sounds gruesome," shuddered the girl with the square-cut bodice.

"I understand, Wing," said the hostess, "your book says to eat is to dine—to devour. Is that right?"

The heathen countenance radiated joy, but his explanation capped the climax.

"You sabe! I look 'in up in book. Sometime you sabe lone; not much eat; you die; when heap folk come eat 'in alle up quick—make heap fuss dewow—dewow, sabe? Dictionary say 'to eat up greedily—alle same—dewow'!"

A Tennis Episode.

There is a pretty, slender girl over near St. James Park, who declares she will not play tennis with a wild girl in her set are just too mean for anything, and the biggest story-teller.

They are telling, she says, a horrid story about about her, where there isn't a word of truth in it, at least—well, of course, she did run into the net—but—

This is the way the girls tell it. It seems at an exciting time recently where it was "deuce alle" in a love set, the pretty girl, who is a rattling good player, was playing a rip-roaring game with much vigor. After deuce had been called several times, in a surprising rally and a wild attempt to smash her adversary's ball, the pretty tennis player, rushing backward, got badly mixed up with the back ball.

Now, this back net is made of chicken wire, in which the round holes measure about three inches in diameter, and the girls say, Blanche plunged through with such force that they do not know where she went. She has stopped, if it hadn't been for her knee joints; they say that really the sight presented to the street resembled nothing so much as a bunch of girls of a buggy sticking through those circular apertures.

Now, although it must be flattering to a girl to have it admitted that her foot will go through an opening the size of a button, she says she can't see for some reason she gets rolled at the situation that she was stopped by her knee joints. Girls are queer things, anyhow.
